The ‘Shy-Member’ of the Trinity

Theologian Frederick Dale Bruner describes the Holy Spirit as ‘The Shy Member of the Trinity’. The shyness is not that of timidity but one of other-centeredness. Be that as it may, Jesus reveals the Spirit, ‘the Advocate’ – that ‘Spirit of truth’ who is with us always, everywhere.

Imaging the Spirit as ‘divine person’ is difficult since we hardly think of a dove as ‘person’. Secondly, Spirit-images of wind and breath have little sacramental or liturgical appeal for believers to relate to the Spirit. Thirdly, fire-imagery is often synonymous with destruction rather than power. Thus, traditional imagery associated with the Spirit seems uninspiring. Nonetheless, Scripture is rich with allusions to the Spirit.

The functions of the Spirit abound in the New Testament: a) the vivifying force of the Christian community, b) the defending force of our hope in God, c) reminding us of the teachings of Jesus, d) clarifying the confusion of our minds, e) instilling courage into our hearts. And we are given with the primary task of witnessing to the same Spirit.

Fr. Amal
