God's fore-giving Love

A syllogistic approach to the readings render us few steps for reflection and application: a) God's forgiving (fore-giving) love is boundless, b) God forgives us no matter how grievous our sins are, c) hence, we have to forgive one another. In the context of the community discourse, it serves as a moral exhortation for us, especially when it comes to offering forgiveness and not taking vengeance.

Symptoms of double standard of living are exhibited when dual principles are applied to the same situation. While we make a sincere appeal to God for forgiveness, we turn our cold and stony hearts to others when it comes to offer the same grace to others when they wrong us. If God is so generous and magnanimously merciful to us the sinners (us), why can't we be a wee bit merciful to others?

We are so closely knit in community, and called to live in the same spirit and attitude, if one member either refuses to forgive or one seeks vengeance, the 'circuit of love' breaks. Beware! We could condemn ourselves praying, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those trespass against us", and prove the pharisaic attitude. God's relentless business is to forgive; so is ours.

Fr. Amal

A PRAYER FOR FARMERS

Creator of Heaven and Earth, we praise You, for the goodness of Your creation reveals something of You, the source of all goodness. We ask You to bless those who farm and make their living off the land. They know of their dependence on you, to make their crops and livestock fertile and fruitful. Bless them Lord, with strong faith, healthy bodies, generous hearts and an abundance of good works. We make our prayer through Christ our Lord.

Chant and Sacred Music

“Sing psalms and hymns and spiritual songs with thankfulness in your hearts to God” (Colossians 3:16). The Church sings because she loves. All the liturgical traditions of the Church have developed forms of chant for the praise of God, the proclamation of the Word, and prayer. Chant is language clothed in the vesture of melody. Chant is born of the word; it elevates the spoken discourse and adapts it to the sacredness of the liturgy.

In any Mass, the first things to be sung are the acclamations and simple dialogues. Priests and deacons are responsible for knowing how to sing the parts of the Mass that belong to them. To the people belong, first of all, the unchanging parts easily learned by heart and sung from memory. The Roman Liturgy gives pride of place to Gregorian Chant; other forms of song also have their place, provided that they “express in melody the truth of the Mystery that is celebrated in the Liturgy” (John Paul II, November 22, 2003). “Some parts of the Ordinary of the Mass in Latin, especially the Creed and the Lord’s Prayer, set to the simpler melodies” (GIRM, art. 41) should be familiar to all Catholics.

Apart from the chants of the Mass itself, there is room for polyphony and other types of sacred music. The pipe organ, an instrument capable of expressing everything from majestic jubilation to humble recollection, holds an esteemed place in our heritage.
